Written & Produced by Logan Price

A little boy is having a bad dream. His emotions jump in!

Fear: Oh, huff puff, he's having a bad dream! What am I going to do? I'm scared!

Anger: This is your job, Fear, you're on dream duty!

Fear: I know, but I don't know what to do!

Sadness: (with a very sad voice) Make him cry. His parents will hear him and come to the rescue.

Disgust: (valley girl voice) No, don't do that. That's stupid!

Joy: No, no, no, no, no! Make him have a good dream!

Fear: I can't make him have a good dream. I'm fear! I'm afraid of everything! You take over, Joy! You can do it!

Anger: Yeah, you do it, Joy!

Disgust: I guess you can do it, Joy!

Sadness: Joy, come do it! I'm so sad.

Joy: OK! Let's see . . . what good dream can I give him?

Disgust: Oh, boy, what good dream did you give him?

Joy: A dream about him being a superhero!

Fear: That's a pretty good dream.

Anger: Why can't he be a villain?

Disgust: Because he's one of the good guys.

Fear: When Anger gets ahold of him, he's not. Anger:
(Punches Fear in the gut)

Fear: Ow, that hurt! You've bruised my tummy!

Sadness: You make me want to cry.

Disgust: Hold it, guys. He woke up!

Joy: It's the start of a brand new day. We're all on duty to do our jobs.
